Headline:
Often showery this week, but winds easing down.

This Evening and Tonight:
Evening showers will tend to retreat to windward coasts, with clear spells developing elsewhere. Turning chilly, given lighter winds, with a touch of frost in sheltered locations with some mist or fog patches in the east by dawn. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Tuesday:
Another day of sunshine and showers, again most numerous in coastal areas, but some developing inland through the afternoon. Lighter winds than on Monday, so pleasant enough in any sunshine. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Some showers again on Wednesday and perhaps Thursday too, these mostly likely in coastal areas of Devon and Cornwall. Generally dry on Friday. Chilly nights with patchy fog and frost.
